FALL

In the beginning there was registration. Approximately thirty-two thousand students passed through the Armory to officially begin the fall semester at the University of Illinois. There were masses of faces and IBM cards; there were dotted lines to sign and specific stations to report to; there were stunned and harried freshmen and confident graduate students slowly progressing through all the lines.

Buying books . . . it was a time when blood pressure ran high and money ran low; when books were scarce and rain was plentiful. The lines still ran long. Freshmen quickly learned that rainy days and long lines were characteristic of New Student Week.

Freshmen had many opportunities to learn more about their University. Illini Guides helped freshmen get settled in the dorm and answered numerous questions. Activity Day provided an excellent opportunity for both freshmen and upperclassmen alike to discover and join any of the University's organizations. Freshmen began to learn that there was more to the University of Illinois than just going to school.

Powder Puff Football and Kams were successful in helping divert students minds from the prospect of starting classes. However, these activities were also responsible for the many bruises and hang-overs that characterized New Student Week.

The quad was an ideal place for relaxing during that first week, and proved even more inviting as the semester wore on. Before classes, between classes, and even during classes, the quad's atmosphere was a perfect distraction. However, frequent rainy days drastically dampened it's use.

EXPANSION

Three new faces appeared on campus this year as construction began on the Intramural-Physical Education Building, the Foreign Language Building, and the Music Building. A fourth new face, the underground Undergraduate Library, opened its doors in September.

The Intramural-Physical Education Building, a multi-million dollar athletic facilities complex, was designed for recreation and education. Plans included four gymnasiums, two pools, twenty-three handball and seven squash courts. Rooms for golf, archery, combat sports, exercise, and games were also included. One unique innovation was the design for four tennis courts that allow winter conversion to an ice skating rink.

The new Music Building was planned to provide many needed practice rooms and new facilities for music students.

In addition to containing all language departments, the Foreign Language Building was designed to include special classrooms for lessons taught by PLATO, a computerized teaching system.

FOOTBALL

Football was Faces and Feelings. It was a high strutting drum major leading the Marching Illini. For many it was the culmination of long months of practice and preparation for that exciting first performance. It was the first play of the game, met by the roaring expectation of victory from the crowd, and mirrored in the cheerleader's exhilarating leap. It was a sense of spirit!

As the game progressed, our hopes diminished. The worried eyes of the cheerleader followed the plays closely, as one of the Fighting Illini was tackled once again. An interception by the rival team provoked an agonizing scream of disgust on the part of a loyal band member. The injury-ridden team was plagued by the loss of another valuable player. The halftime break was a source of much relief to both the fans and the players.

The Fighting Illini had their worst football season since 1953 when they also compiled a winless season. Very few times were the Illini even ahead at the halftime, and the fans shared their discouragement. In spite of the repeated losses, the Illini believed every game was a new beginning, and if the No. 1 position could not be attained they would do everything in their power to stop someone else. And so it was: the cheerleaders kept cheering, Chief Illiniwek kept dancing, Block I kept flashing, and the Illini kept marching.

Coach Valek's squad tallied 106 points against 397 for their opponents. Dave Jackson, Bob Bess, Doug Dieken, and Steve Livas each scored three touchdowns for eighteen points apiece. In rushing, Jackson netted 465 yards. Junior Darrell Robinson rushed 446 yards in 112 carries for an average of 3.9. Bess carried 66 times for a net gain of 286 and an average of 4.3. In passing, sophomore quarterback Steve Livas completed 42 of 131 attempts for 705 yards and one touchdown. Lange hit 25 of 56 attempts for a gain of 396 yards and 4 touchdowns. Leading receiver was Dieken with 29 receptions for a total of 486 yards and three scores.

Although the halftime activities provided the necessary revival of spirit, it was not long before anxiety set in. As time waned, one of the coaches pressed the need for retaliation by the Illinois team as members of the Pom-Pon squad empathized with the battered, pressured team member. The clock ticked the final seconds of the game as two Illini dejectedly awaited the inevitable defeat.

DAD'S DAY

Dad's Day Weekend found smiles to be the prevalent style. The atmosphere was congenial and no dad could complain about a lack of planned activities. There was something scheduled for every minute so that even the hardest dads had to find time to sit down and relax.

The dads were welcomed by Chancellor Peltason at the Dad's Day Dinner on Friday night. Saturday morning brought a coffee hour sponsored by the Dad's Association where Governor Richard Ogilvie was the guest speaker. Sporting straw hats, the dads watched the Fighting Illini fall to Northwestern. But the defeat didn't curtail the fun of crowning the King Dad during half time by Chief Illiniwek.

In the evening, the fathers had to choose between Dad's Day Revue, "Sing-It Again, Pop," and the Illinois and Michigan Varsity Men's Glee Club concert. The more daring fathers participated in the Chug contest at Kams, and only a few failed to visit the IUSA Dad's Day Casino.

On Sunday, the dads toured the campus or listened to the Walden Quartet concert at Krannert. All dads left wearing their smiles!

SOCCER

The University of Illinois Soccer Club has existed for only the past eleven years, although a team existed in the 1930's. The team is a private club which competes in the Midwest Soccer League. It consists of twenty players, eleven of which may participate at one time and a total of sixteen are eligible to play in one game. This fall the team played ten games which resulted in four wins, five losses, and one tie. Coach Richter, looking forward to the 1970 season, hopes to better this year's record as he will have a number of players returning next season.

CROSS COUNTRY

The University of Illinois cross country squad climaxed a highly successful season by finishing second in the Big Ten. The harriers finished the season with a 9-1 dual meet record and won the Illinois Intercollegiate Championship. Coach Gary Wieneke cited a "winning team attitude" as the major factor in the team's success. Team spirit was exemplified when five harriers, Greg Dykstra, Ken Howse, Rick Gross, Larry Cobb, and Lee LaBadie finished in a tie for first place with an excellent time of 24:55. Another highlight of the season was when captain Greg Dykstra set a new five mile course record of 24:24.7 at Savoy. The harriers have shown rapid improvement since their tenth place Big Ten finish two years ago. The outlook for next season is even better as the Illini have seven of their top eight runners returning. If the team works hard and lives up to expectations, the Illini harriers could pocket a Big Ten championship next year.

RUGBY

The 1969 fall season turned out to be a disappointment for the University of Illinois Rugby Club. The club, led by team captain and coach Harry Marcellus, managed only one tie in nine Midwest Rugby Union contests for a season record of 0-8-1.

After a successful season the previous fall and an increasingly large spring turnout, the prospects for a good season looked promising. However, the opposition proved to be much more experienced and organized. Optimism was high in regard to the spring season due to an anticipated heavier turnout of undergraduate and American students. In the past, the club consisted mainly of graduate and foreign students, but the sport is rapidly attracting more participants on campus.

October 15, 1969 . . . a day of recollection.

"What do we want?"

"Peace."

"When do we want it?"

"Now!"

With hopes and aspirations for world peace, nine thousand marchers hiked to Westside Park for a protest rally which highlighted the University's moratorium activities. Chants and protest songs filled the air as students and faculty listened to condemnations of the Viet Nam war and the draft system.

Many students participated in other activities of the moratorium on "business as usual." The quad was converted into a human peace symbol as over two thousand students participated in the candlelight ceremony. A memorial was staged in which poetry readings, folk singing, and interpretive dancing emphasized the tragic and inhumane consequences of war as well as degraded the society which perpetrated it.

Singer Eartha Kitt and former Illinois attorney general William G. Clark spoke at a protest rally on the Auditorium steps. Miss Kitt focused on the frustrations of the American people, while Clark emphasized national participation in anti-war activities.

HOMECOMING

"Hexascopic, Hell's a Topic," the theme of the 1969 Homecoming, brought to mind a curse that an imaginary witch might cast on a toad. Surely some Halloween spirit must have been at work for this particular weekend, as Champaign-Urbana was plagued by the monsoon weather. The Homecoming festivities were to begin with the annual parade, however, due to the bad weather, the parade and pep rally were cancelled. Nevertheless, in the midst of the continuing afternoon drizzle, the freshman football team overwhelmingly stomped the Purdue Boilermakers in an impressive 34-0 victory. Later that night, the announcement of the queen was moved undercover, but the atmosphere did not dampen the excitement and pride of the student body when they learned that their 1969 Homecoming Queen was Miss Charlynn Chamberlin.

With Homecoming festivities well underway the night was yet early for . . .

the pledges of various fraternities on campus who were forcefully nominated to provide human steam to operate some of the moving house decorations. Sigma Pi won first place in two-dimensional house decoration competition. The MRH three-dimensional division was won by Clark, Lundgren, Barton, and Snyder, while first place was awarded to Evans Hall in the WISA-Panhel division. Triangle and Alpha Delta Pi placed first in float competition. The trophy for total points earned during the Homecoming competition went to Triangle fraternity. Friday's events closed with a masquerade rock dance with music provided by Mother Load and the Rugby's, but . . .

that was only the beginning. Saturday dawned gray, but the weather didn't stop the arrival of alumni for their long awaited visit to the "Big U."

The Illinois-Purdue game roused a crowd of 55,000 to excitement in a tense first half with the Boilermakers favoring only 28-22 against the Fighting Illini.

At halftime, the Marching Illini pranced onto the field at the beckoning of the crowd with a program full of "Songs for the Old and New." And of course, what would a game be without the appearance of Chief Illinwek. The Chief's traditional Indian dance and the band's rendition of the Illinois Loyalty were well received by the alumni.

To the disappointment of everyone, two fumbles and an intercepted pass led to three Purdue touchdowns which caused the Boilermakers to pull ahead to a 49-22 victory. Despite the loss, the Fighting Illini still performed some tremendous plays for their fans.

But many activities kept the campus alive that night as . . .

the queen reigned over the formal Homecoming ball. Woody Herman and his orchestra provided romantic music for the occasion, which climaxed a supernatural weekend.

In spite of the weather, the smashing success of the weekend was credited to Joe Wojtena, major chairman, and his committee chairmen, who worked hard to overcome the obstacles. Nevertheless, due to financial difficulties this may have been the last Homecoming for the school that initiated the Homecoming idea in 1910.

The queen of the 59th annual Homecoming was Miss Charlynn Chamberlain, a junior in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. A native of Chicago and a James Scholar, Charlynn's plans included graduate work and a career as a school psychologist. Miss Chamberlain, the second black Homecoming queen in university history and president of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, was introduced, along with her court, before the Saturday football game. Saturday night she reigned over the dance held in the Ballroom of the Illini Union.

A cycle of hourlies, midterms and lab practicals forced most students to study continuously throughout the semester.

The final challenge came after long hours spent in the library or hibernation in a quiet lounge.

ARMY ROTC

New members are initiated into Chevron.
Special Forces troops must use many skills while on a maneuver.

Army ROTC celebrated its 150th year of existence by boasting an enrollment of over 150,000 students on approximately 280 campuses. At the University of Illinois, more than 375 men were active in the ROTC program.

AROTC training enabled the student to earn an officer's commission while he studied for his college degree. He acquired useful military experience as well as developed his ability to organize, motivate, and lead men.

Pershing Rifles, a division of AROTC, sponsored the 22nd Annual Drill Meet in the spring. The meet was the world's largest with over 600 teams attending.

Special Forces, a field training organization, met to engage in weekend maneuvers. The coed auxiliary, Chevrons, kept active throughout the year by sponsoring and assisting with many military events.

Officers keep men active during weekly training sessions in the Armory.

NAVAL ROTC

The Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps was established at the University of Illinois to prepare qualified college students for responsible positions as officers in the United States Navy and Marine Corps. A thorough training in university and naval subjects allowed the newly-commissioned ensigns or second lieutenants to enter such diverse fields as naval aviation, submarine duty, nuclear power training, naval research, sea duty as a line officer, or a Marine platoon leader. Midshipmen participated in various unit activities during the year, such as the Exhibition Drill Team, Rifle Team, Navy Council, Trident Society, and Sextant Society. Associated with the midshipmen was the Triton Society, a women's naval auxiliary which promoted the interests of the NROTC unit.

Air Force ROTC provided leadership and training experience for future officers. Arnold Air Society, a professional fraternity, and Angel Flight, its sister affiliate, received instruction as well as gave their service to the community. They planned fund raising projects such as Christmas caroling, preparing Thanksgiving food baskets, collecting donations for the USO, and reading to the blind. The annual Air Force Ball was held in the fall, while the formal banquet, "Dining-In," was held in the spring.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving marked a change in seasons and atmosphere. The colorful fall campus transformed into a cold barren area with the onset of winter. The green quad, once sprinkled with students studying or relaxing, became an empty expanse. A premature snowstorm reminded many of the approaching and long awaited vacations. The pressures of academic life built to a breaking point, and Thanksgiving vacation was viewed as a long awaited change and a time for relaxation. The great exodus began early: students traveled by car, train, bus, or plane. The noisy dorms and classroom confusion were no longer: University activity had ceased. But all too soon people returned, classroom attendance picked up, and the campus was once again alive with people.

Arrangement and planning—these were the chief tasks of the student operated Star Course. Variety was emphasized, and this year performances ranged from the popular singing star Dionne Warwick to the classical violinist Regis Pasquier. Such performances as these brought entertainment to the students of the University as well as to the residents of Champaign-Urbana.

Facilities at Krannert were used, for example, by University Theatre which began its fall productions with "Galileo"; continued with three plays, "Crime on Goat Island", "Exit the King", and "Elixir of Love"; and concluded the fall season with the musical "Oliver". Student managers of this group, Jessica Hahn and Sylvia Silvon, worked with other student staffs plus the Theatre Board to arrange the plays. The University Music Department also performed many of its concerts and recitals at Krannert. Various other famous musicians and dance groups entertained on one of Krannert's three stages throughout the year.

WEEKENDS

Weekends were always awaited with eagerness, for they brought a respite from long hours in class and studying. A date might consist of playing the piano together or waiting in line to see a popular show at the local theatres. One could choose from a variety of activities such as skating, underground movies, or even study dates. Some went home on weekends, some worked, and some went in groups to meet new people at Kams or Trenos. But each tried to relax and to take the time to be a person instead of simply a student.

SPEAKERS

The University attracted a multitude of speakers to the campus for both formal and informal talks. The topics of discussion managed to appeal to the wide variety of student interests and ranged from major world problems to small campus issues. Poetry lovers were captivated by the colorful readings of Lawrence Ferlinghetti and William Stafford. Anti-racists applauded Fannie Lou Hanner's outspoken advocacy of freedom and justice for black people. BSA brought Robert G. Clark, Jr., black Mississippi legislator, to campus. Radical speakers such as Dr. Spock and Joan Malone of the DC 9 spoke on more controversial issues.

Just as winter snows and ice began to bog students down, signs of Christmas mysteriously appeared on campus. Holly wreathes, mistletoe, decorated trees, and colored lights brightened University buildings and residences. In its traditional magic ways, the yuletide spirit gladdened weary hearts as students rushed to finish Christmas shopping in between classes and studying.

WINTER

Relating major events on the University campus was the function of the student newspaper, the Daily Illini. For the past 99 years the DI has related the latest in national events and University affairs to the student body. With a circulation of 8,500, the Daily Illini offered the students an evaluation of campus activities, the opportunity to express their opinions, and a calendar of major upcoming events. Staffed almost completely by students, this branch of University publications incorporated a great deal of cooperation and time in its printing.

"Crossroads of Culture" was the theme of the 17th annual International Fair. It gave 1,700 students from 70 foreign countries an opportunity to proudly display their national heritage through entertainment and exhibits. Vivid colors and various textures were visible at the Import Bazaar where students sold their 'wares.' One of the many highlights of the fair was the Japanese exhibit with its beautifully costumed girls and graceful interior setting.

LIBRARY

The new Undergraduate Library became a haven for students with serious studying to do. People could be found in all parts of the library, at all hours of the day, and in all sorts of unique studying positions. Because of the constant activity, some of the students sought relief from distractions by retreating to the study carrels while others sat at the tables and enjoyed the more social aspects of the library.

Classes, traditionally considered the substance of the learning experience, offered various opportunities and methods of learning. In contrast to the large lecture rooms with multitudes of sleepy, note-taking students were the individual efforts of self-expression by the chemist, the artist, and the dancer.

Creativity and self-achievement were reflected in the concentrated efforts of these students. By stretching, observing, welding, and sculpturing, each came a step closer to finding his place in the University. Unfortunately, there were always those rote memorization sessions which tended to stifle the individual instinct for creativity.

Studying meant frustration, last minute cramming, or possible relaxation. For all University students, it was an unavoidable time consumer. Each student chose his own special method and place to make the task more bearable. Dorm lounges provided a living room atmosphere which was sometimes more conducive to getting through those extra long reading assignments.

SORORITY RUSH

During the first stage of Panhellenic rush, 1,100 girls and three boys visited twenty-two of the sororities on campus. A rush party of about fifty girls visited each house for about twenty minutes. The girls soon found it took a lot of energy and stamina to survive two full days of smiles, laughter, and sore feet. The final three stages of rush were held between semesters, the first weekend in February. The rushees were shown the upstairs of the houses and were entertained with skits put on by the actives. The rushees got a better chance to meet the members of each sorority and to form an opinion of each house. On Saturday, the rushees submitted their preference cards. After receiving the bids back on Monday evening, the new pledges were treated to a celebration at Stan's or Kam's by their new sisters.

The Illinois basketball team, led by co-captains Randy Crews and Mike Price, got off to a great start in December. The team bolstered six consecutive wins going into the Holiday Tournament in Portland, Oregon. This impressive display of talent won the Illini national recognition as one of the top twenty collegiate teams. In the tournament, however, Illinois lost two of its three games, one to Washington State and one to Southern California.

At the Chicago Stadium in January, the Illini lost a hard-fought battle to Notre Dame by a slim three points. Then back in Champaign after finals, the Assembly Hall crowd witnessed the first home defeat in two seasons of play. This was the second one-point defeat that the Illini sustained during the season.

In the game against Iowa, Rick Howat scored thirty-two points, giving him the record for this season in a single game. Other season "bests" for single games were Greg Jackson for nineteen rebounds against Creighton, Fred Miller for eleven free throws in the first Wisconsin game, and Rick Howat, again, chalking up fourteen field goals against Notre Dame and Iowa.

The Fighting Illini ended the season with a 15-9 overall record, and a tie for third place in the Big Ten. They averaged 75.9 points per game and scored a total of 1829 points. Individually, Greg Jackson was top point maker with 409 and an average of 17.0. He was followed by Price scoring 359 points with an average of 14.9, Howat scoring 335 points and an average of 13.9, and Miller scoring 293 with a season's average of 12.2.

Coach Charlie Pond's Illini gymnasts ended this year with a very successful 6-1 record in Big Ten dual meets. The Illini were title contenders the whole season and were just edged out of second place in the Big Ten Conference Championships at the University of Minnesota. Leading the Illini to a third place finish were Ken Barr who took second on the side horse, missing first place by two hundredths of a point; Larry Butts who took second in floor exercise, Gene Kalin's third on the parallel bars, and Ed Raymond and Bob Swonick who took fifth and sixth places respectively in all-around competition.

Other outstanding gymnasts for the Illini included John Roemer in vaulting and Dan Hockhauser on the highbar.

The young Illini swimming team wound up their season with a respectable 5-6 dual meet record. With only seven returning lettermen on the squad, many sophomores and freshmen were able to gain valuable experience in Big 10 competition. This was only the sixth losing season for Head Coach Al Klingel since he took over in 1953.

Indiana again took first in the conference meet finishing well ahead of second place Michigan. Leading the Illini to their seventh place finish were senior Bob Anderson, who placed sixth in the 100-yard breast stroke, and freshman Jim Fieldhouse, who finished sixth in the 50-yard freestyle. Among the outstanding swimmers returning next year, in addition to Jim Fieldhouse, will be Tony Sterba, also a freshman, in the butterfly, and sophomore Joe Tanner in the individual medley.

WRESTLING

"A man's home is his castle," and Coach Jack Robinson's UI varsity wrestling squad enjoyed the luxury of home as they won five of their six meets in the Men's Old Gym.

The team had a little more difficulty on the road, however, as they lost all eight of their away meets, including a thorough trouncing by Big Ten champions Michigan State. The Illini took eighth place in the conference meet, finishing ahead of Purdue and Wisconsin.

Captain John Fregeau led the team with an impressive 18-5 record in the 135 pound class. Illinois placed two grapplers in the Big Ten meet as Bruce Kirkpatrick (15-6-2) finished second in the 167 pound class and Darrell Robinson (5-1) finished fourth in the 190 pound class. Fregeau and Kirkpatrick are seniors, but Robinson, who showed much potential during the latter part of the season, will be back next year along with nine other lettermen.

Intramural sports became more popular again this year with housing units fielding teams in more sports than ever before. Competition is high, and the race for most total points is close. For the 1969 season, ATO won the fraternity blue division; ADPhi won the orange division; Newman 1 won the MIA blue and Page House the orange; and Scott 2W won the MRH division.

Delta Chi won the fraternity blue division basketball championship, dethroning ATO which won the title for the last three years, and Alpha Phi Alpha won a well deserved orange division basketball championship.

The new Rehabilitation-Education Center

opened in October 1966. The center, planned to be built in two stages, has fully completed the first stage of development. Departments for Medical Services; Physical, Occupational and Functional Therapies; Counseling; Services for the Blind and Deaf; Equipment and Facilities; Prosthetics; and a Library were available. Internationally famous, the University's rehabilitation programs have served as an impetus for the construction of similar projects on campuses across the nation. Students at the U of I lived in regular residence halls and attended regular classes. Facilities for the disabled were available in any building on campus and buses were equipped to accommodate students in wheelchairs. Participation in all campus activities was encouraged; especially student government, fraternities, sororities, vocal groups, and special recreational sports. Wheelchair football, basketball, baseball, square dancing, archery; swimming and bowling for the blind, and a multitude of other activities were planned for handicapped students.

WHEELCHAIR SPORTS

Maybe the field wasn't as long and the men weren't as big, but the game was still football. The continual clashing and overturning of wheelchairs, if anything, made the sport rougher for the player and more exciting for spectators. The Gizz Kids, the University's wheelchair basketball squad, were internationally known and ranked exceedingly high in conference play—boasting an undefeated season.

ILLIOSKEE

As the first day of spring approached so did the rain. ILLIOSKEE opened Thursday night with rain and mud, but by Friday night the weather had cleared. Undaunted by the slush that remained, a mass of warmly clad students, parents, and faculty participated in the events of ILLIOSKEE.

As in previous years, the area west of the Assembly Hall was transformed into a sparkling locale of rides, games, and excitement. Among the many attractions were tricycle races, the ferris wheel, cotton candy, the Sky Diver, the mung machine, and the pudding throw.

Friday was highlighted by the announcement of the winner of the MEBOC contest, Mike Price.

Entertainment in many forms characterized "Mum's the Word," last spring's mothers' weekend. Illini Union sponsored activities, featured boutique booths in the Union. Afro, mini, and maxi looks dominated the annual fashion show which followed the WISA luncheon. Practical, impractical, everyday, and bizarre outfits were modeled. Delighting its audience with precision swimming and graceful water ballet, the Terrapin Swim Show was one of the first events of the weekend.

The Union Art show offered student work for sale and featured an old town setting and live entertainment by the James E. Fuqua Blues Band.

Special matinee and evening performances of "Happy Time" drew large audiences to watch the students stage the Kander and Ebb musical.

The evening performances of the U of I Jazz Band and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra were held in the completed Krannert Center for the Performing Arts. Displaying unusual mobility and coordination, the famed Gizz kids demonstrated basketball and football skills in an afternoon exhibition. At the same time the "Up with People" group sang on the Union terrace.

CAMPUS CHEST FUND DRIVE

FEBRUARY 16-22

Campus Chest was an aggregate charity organized in 1948 to eliminate the many campus welfare groups that were soliciting from the students. The students themselves founded Campus Chest to integrate all the charity drives into one annual fund drive.

Besides sponsoring the fund drive, Campus Chest held several special social events and informed the University about the charities to which money was given. Funds collected were divided among the World University Service, the American Cancer Society, CARE, PAL, VIP, mental health organizations, University scholarships, the Rehabilitation Center, Better Boys Foundation, and the Leukemia Foundation.

pin and paddle queen

On April 26th Barb Myles was chosen to reign as the 1969 Pin and Paddle Queen. The dance was sponsored by the Junior Intrafraternity Council and all queen candidates were current sorority pledges nominated by a fraternity on campus. Barb, a member of Delta Gamma sorority and a freshman majoring in Spanish, was nominated by Lambda Chi Alpha.

plowboy prom queen

Judy Schaufelberger reigned over the Ag-sponsored Plowboy Prom which was held last spring.

The New Mrs. Ed McMillan, a U. of I. junior in food and business major was escorted to the dance by her husband-to-be.

FRATERNITY RUSH

Fraternity rush operated on both a formal and informal basis. Informal rush was a continuous chain of "smokers" and dinners which allowed interested men to become acquainted with various fraternities on a more individual and personal basis.

Formal rush was held in April and was designed to acquaint high school seniors with Greek life. Prospective pledges were invited to spend a weekend on campus and visit a total of twelve fraternities.

Batting their way to a well deserved second place in the Big Ten division with a season record of eleven wins and seven losses, the Illinois baseball team had one of its best seasons in recent years. Their overall record for the 1969 season was twenty-two wins and twenty losses.

Captained by senior shortstop Chuck Schierer, the Illini attributed much of their success to the hitting ability of the players. Sophomore Bob Windmiller had a Big Ten batting average of .385 which ranked him fifth among other Big Ten hitters. Behind Bob were seniors Clyde Kuehn, who posted a .340 average, and Augie Matejzel, who compiled a .333 average ranking fourteenth and fifteenth, respectively, in the Big Ten.

As a whole, Illini pitching had an earned run average of 3.24, while opponents' hitting was limited to .219. Senior Rich Binder led the team with an earned run average of 1.13 and seven wins. His earned run average ranked him sixth in Big Ten pitching.

SPRING FOOTBALL

Once again Coach Jim Valek and the Fighting Illini entered the spring football practice session with their work cut out for them. Losing several players due to personal reasons, the Illini had to do some reconstructing. Bright spots for Coach Valek were improvements in the backfield and offensive line which were evidenced in the four-week spring session.

Finishing fifth in the Big Ten Indoor Track Meet, Coach Bob Wright's thinclads slipped to sixth place in the Outdoor Big Ten Meet. Jeff McLellan, captain of last year's team, was the only first place winner with a shotput toss of 57 ft., 10 in. The outdoor season saw the Illini defeat six of their opponents while falling to five. The biggest win of the season came in a quadrangular meet in which the Illini defeated Eastern Illinois University, Illinois State University, and Northwestern.

The outlook for the 1970 outdoor season appears to be good despite the loss of McLellan and pole vaulter Ed Halik. The team, captained by Dave Bobert, is strong in all events, and has an excellent group of runners from last fall's cross country team. With the help of some fine sophomores led by high jumper Brad Richardson, Coach Wright looks forward to a big improvement over last season.

TENNIS

Coach Dan Olson's varsity tennis squad finished the 1969 season with a disappointing dual meet record, although they did post a very respectable fifth place finish in Big Ten competition. Their final regular season record was 4-12, with all four wins coming against Big Ten opponents. The Big Ten Championship Tournament at Michigan State proved to be much more successful. Captain Ed Thompson took a third place at number one singles, while sophomore Chip Clements took a second at number two singles. In addition, the number two doubles team made up of junior Tom Dunlap and sophomore George Voss gained an upset victory for the Illini by capturing second place. It was these victories which led Illinois to a fifth place finish in the Big Ten Championship and a better showing than regular season meets had indicated.

GOLF

The big event of the season for the linksmen was the Big Ten Championship at East Lansing, Michigan. The Illini played well but could manage only an eighth place finish. Leading scorers for Illinois at the seventy-two hole tournament were Pat Keen with a 312 total, followed by teammate Butch Pegoraro with a total of 321.

Dick Youngberg, Illini golf coach, felt that the team's relatively low conference finish was due to a lack of depth, along with the fact that many of the players had little or no summer experience. However, Coach Youngberg stated that the signing of several exceptional high school golfers could bring Illinois out of the golf doldrums as early as next season.

Among the many vast buildings of higher education which comprise the University of Illinois, stood a home! This home was any one of the religious foundations on campus. Whether the student sought personal and social growth in a co-operative house or an opportunity to meet his friends in a student center or coffee house, the churches sponsored them all. Bull sessions, inter-faith studies, camping retreats, folk-sung Masses, and the sacraments were always available. Although the world is characterized by ambiguity and diversity, the campus churches continually allowed students to discover what creative living in ecumenical honesty really meant. They let God into their everyday lives of study.

SIGMA CHI DERBY DAYS

Sigma Chi Derby Days gave Greek coeds a chance to let their hair down, throw on an old sweatshirt, and have a great time while competing for prizes and trophies.

Bartering Day was the first event of the three-day festival. This activity required girls to offer their services by performing small tasks, such as washing a car or cleaning a room, for the men of Sigma Chi. The girls received a derby which was worth points for each task done.

The Derby Steal found girls borrowing, stealing, and even grabbing hats from Sigma Chi members to earn more points.

Sorority intramurals took place on the final day. Eight different events including "Posterior Painting," "Butter Fingers," and "Zip 'n Strip" were held on Huff Field. Trophies were awarded to the houses whose members had accumulated the most points.

The Sigma Chi Derby Darlin' was crowned on Saturday evening. She reigned supreme for the remainder of the Sigma Chi Derby Days festivities.

The Undergraduate Student Association, better known as UGSA, was an eleven member steering committee which replaced the former Student Senate. Created to serve students better on a day to day basis, UGSA felt it could meet political demands more effectively and serve as a bargaining agent between the administration and the students.

UGSA took an active role in the initiation of numerous projects and programs which benefited the student body. The committee was an influential voice in the implementation of unlimited hours for freshmen women. Other projects included the record service, refrigerator rental, and financial aid referendums.

The annual Honors Day program reflected the high appraisal the University holds for scholastic achievement. The program was held to honor all students who posted high scholastic averages during the previous academic year.

Presiding at the convocation was Chancellor J. W. Peltason. Elvis J. Stahr, president of the National Audubon Society, delivered the address. The program was highlighted by the naming of one hundred and eight seniors to the Bronze Tablet. These honored scholars were distinguished by the fact that they maintained a 4.8 average throughout their academic careers at the University.

The end of the year drew near, and with it came a migration to the outdoors. The time was marked by the shedding of jackets and the peopling of the quad. The last chill of winter left the air, and the first green leaves of the trees made shadows on the winter roughened bark. With thoughts of summer and the closing of books, came the waiting and wishing for a summer job.

For some, graduation loomed near with the possibility of a new job with larger responsibilities. For them it marked an end, or rather a new beginning; always with them would be their college memories. For others, it was being amazed, discovering their picture in the new yearbook, or feeding the bright white ducks at Allerton Park. The end of the long year also meant a parting of friends for the summer, with the expectation of meeting once again in the fall. The end of the year was really the beginning of the summer.

A student's initial introduction to a fraternity or sorority took place during rush, be it formal or informal. Rush provided houses with a means of selecting new members and an opportunity for rushees to familiarize themselves with the Greek system. Rush was followed by a period of formal pledgeship. During this time, the pledge adjusted himself to his new life by fulfilling certain obligations. A successful pledgeship was followed by initiation as an active member of the brotherhood or sisterhood. Sharing certain responsibilities and privileges, active members assembled each week in chapter meeting to structure their house government and plan social calendars.

New people with varying interests and ideas made the residence halls an environment of constant change. Though many people came and went, lasting friendships were still made. Informal gatherings in students' rooms served as a popular source of entertainment as well as broke the barrier of impersonality. Coed dorms extended further the opportunities for social interaction.

Residence halls kept active social calendars with a multitude of dances, formals, informals, and exchanges. The highlight of the year was the production of the Dads Day Revue. Independents spent months writing and rehearsing their skits for the final performance.

Snack Bar: conducive to food, fun, and frolic.

For a study break, fresh air makes for clearer thinking.

Life in the independent house appealed to the student who sought the quiet and homey atmosphere of a small living unit without selective membership. Each living unit functioned as a separate body although their activities were similar. Close personal relationships were prevalent within each house and residents shared house duties. Unlike dormitory residents, students in independent houses enjoyed the luxury of having waiters to serve their meals. Comfortable living rooms and lounges made small houses conducive to study. Much time and energy was devoted to service projects with several houses sponsoring foster children. Social activities were highlighted by exchanges and open house dances.

University lounges produce a home-like effect.

APARTMENT LIVING

Despite the high rent costs, approximately 16 per cent of the student body lived in private apartments. Apartments offered eligible students an opportunity to escape the noise and congestion of communal living. More living space and a lack of restrictions provided students with a more relaxed way of living without limitations on visitation, liquor, or privacy. Kitchen facilities gave gourmets a chance to experiment with new recipes and show off their cooking talents to friends.

ENTER

Tuesday

Student dissent reached a climax during several nights of window-smashing protests and clashes with the police in the spring. Demonstrators voiced opposition to the University's policy on open recruitment and the Board of Trustees' decision to ban William Kunstler, defense attorney in the Chicago Conspiracy trial, from speaking on campus. As the disorder spread, curfews were imposed and over 700 National Guardsmen were called in to police the campus. The week of demonstration resulted in nine student suspensions, over one hundred arrests, and many unsolved problems.

The year is over and the book has been completed. It has been an exciting year for me as Editor-in-Chief. In the spring of 1969 I decided to revise the book. With the help of Mike Hackleman, our publisher's representative, the Senior staff planned the book during the summer of 1969. We were already to begin when fall arrived. October brought the ACP convention and I found myself in Miami Beach, meeting yearbook editors from all over the United States. My most memorable experiences occurred around the time of deadlines. I was fortunate in having a dependable staff who worked together. Many late nights were spent reading copy and checking layouts. Because of the unified effort of the staff, the 1970 Illio is exciting.

The 1970 Illio is smaller. Smaller, but more interesting. The book is divided into two areas. The first is a look at the year, 1969-1970, at the University of Illinois. It is a chronological study of the events and everyday happenings that make up the life of a U. of I. student. Starting with fall, we go from homecoming to Thanksgiving and midterms. Winter takes us from Christmas to basketball. Spring takes us from Illioskee to graduation. The second section is a look at the individuals who make up the U. of I. This section includes the administration, student leaders, residences, and Seniors. A colorful sew-in divides the book into the two sections. The book covers the pertinent events that make 1969-1970 different from all previous years, while still covering the individuals.

The success of the book has to be attributed to my staff. Thanks to Margie Pinc, Lay-out Editor, and Barbara Szot, Copy Editor, who spent long hours in production and advising younger staff members. Christy Habecost, Personnel Manager, deserves thanks for the many times she kept Illio Staff and Photo Staff spirits high. I want to thank John DeLuca, Business Manager, for his excellent job of advertising. Most of all, I want to thank the Junior Editors for the time they spent in compiling their sections. Bill Tarney, Wendy Coughlin, Debbie McNeil, Carol Furar — Student Life. Ruth Amidon, Pam Eichman — Seniors. Dave Creel — Sports. Maryann King — Residences.

I also thank Mike Hackleman for all the time he spent with me in preparing this book. It was Mike who encouraged me to revise the book.

I also thank Mr. Paul McMichael for the many times he answered questions for me and gave me advice.

The IPC Photo Staff took almost all the pictures in Section I, the Distinguished Illini pictures, and the staff pictures. I appreciate all the co-operation they gave us. Thank you, Photo Staff.

In conclusion, I have enjoyed editing the 1970 Illio. The book is designed for you. I hope you find it as interesting as I do.
